RECEIVER KING'S ASSETS

EXAMINATION OF ASSETS SHOWS PRACTICALLY

WORTHLESS

Large Blocks of Stocks in Companies He Promoted Himself Cannot Be Sold in Market and Are Commercially Worthless

That the hundreds of creditors of Cardenio F. King who lost their savings in the failure of the financial agent face a hopeless prospect was made evident to-day when Receiver Jeremiah Smith, Jr., filed his schedule of King's assets and liabilities with the clerk of the United States District Court.

The liabilities are undetermined, but will reach at least $100,000. A review of the list leads to the impression that King will not be able to pay ten cents on the dollar.

A number of blocks of stock bought for his customers are not given in the assets. He is reported to have cleaned up $50,000 before leaving Boston. A large amount of worthless securities he left behind.

The former millionaire, who is now believed to be in hiding in Europe to evade arrest on a charge of larceny, had only $91.33 on deposits in banks. His principal assets include 8,838 shares of stocks in companies many of which he promoted himself, and which cannot be sold on any stock exchange.

HIS STOCKS ARE WORTHLESS. The monetary value of these securities is, however, not so small. The assets also include notes receivable amounting to $17,000. It is highly probable that one-fourth of this can be collected. The notes given by Dr. Morgan Winsor of New Jersey for $10,000 has been protested. Dr. Ayres reports on the ground that it was in payment for stocks sold under fraudulent representations. King's attorney has filed a caveat.

The schedule is included a list of 265 shares of stock held in King's name for customers. Many of the notes were given in payment for these securities. $50,000 on Final Clean-Up. The list of stock owned by King himself shows few in companies of recognized standing. The financial agent is known to have put up a number of blocks of stock, which he had bought on the installment account, in security for loans. He had on the day of his departure $4,000 on the way before the financial agent's departure. He had been for several months acting as the agent for the sale of shares of third stocks, and evidence in the possession of the BOSTON AMERICAN shows that he had speculated valuable stocks in the Wall Street market. The assets listed among his assets do not include the securities of the latter company. It would appear that he had sold all the securities of the latter company, and the others still held were the result of the sale of the securities of the latter company. It is unable to form any estimate of the value of the securities appearing in this list, declares Mr. Smith himself, in his report to the court. If it were, they would be of no value, except in the case of the alleged bankrupt.

Receiver Files Report.

Receiver Smith doled the lump of newspaper men at the Federal building at twenty minutes of 1 o'clock today and readily yielded into the hands of the reporter the clerk. The receiver's report, which he filed with the clerk of the court, would not determine the value of the assets, which you may look up without an examination of the books by any of the creditors. The receiver's report has been made. While it is impossible to estimate accurately the amount of the liabilities, they will probably be at least $100,000.

The report shows that King had on March 12, the date Receiver Smith took charge of his books, only $91.33 in cash savings from attachments. $242 being in the office and the rest on deposit in four banks.

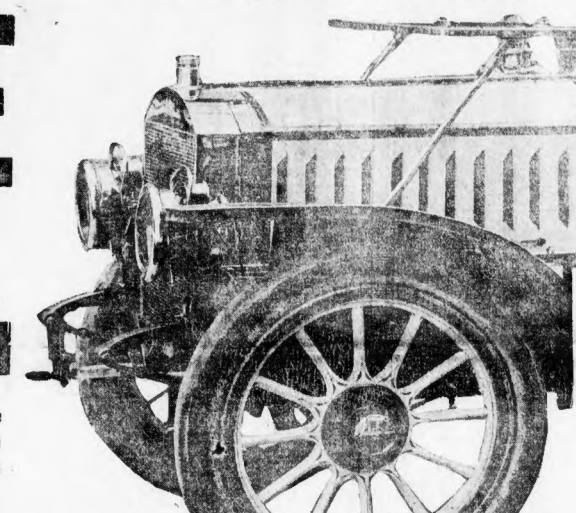

Attachments on House.

In the real estate items there are included the house at No. 60 Powell street, Brookline, where Mrs. King still lives, which is attached to the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company for $15,000. Also 11,000 square feet of land in Hyde Park, assessed for $15,000 in full by the Boston City.

There are attachments on King's property amounting to over $100,000. That in connection with various bills brought just before King's financial flight to New York.

It became known to-day that King wrote to his mother from London, saying that he was enjoying himself in Europe.

Doctors Declare There Is Chance Now; HOPE FOR GOVERNOR

"The symptoms are more favorable and more encouraging every hour," he said.

The news was flashed to Secretary Frank L. Ryan at the State House, and it was communicated to the various departments and the officers of both branches of the Legislature. It caused great relief to all who heard the bulletin.

Although the Governor's condition is still very weak, it is a very good sign that he is feeling better and that his strength is coming back.

He is still very weak, however, and the recovery will be a long one.

MORAN SLIPS AWAY ON TRIP TO SOUTH

DISTRICT ATTORNEY TAKES NOON TRAIN FOR NEW YORK—MAY BE GONE TILL JUNE.

District Attorney John B. Moran is on his way to the South. Without informing even his intimate friends, when he got on the noon train for New York, he was gone. The district attorney started off without his usual retinue of clerks and assistants.

He took the noon train for New York by way of Springfield, and all predictions were that he would not return to Boston until June or July.

He left written instructions for Assistant District Attorney Dwyer and Mr. Goffrich, who did not get away until after 10 o'clock. He spent some time with his stenographer, Miss Murphy, during the forenoon. His departure was not known to his intimates until after 10 o'clock.

At his conclusion, Mr. Moran ordered a suit dispatched to his home, and when it arrived he and Attorney Dwyer immediately called on the driver to hurry to the Shaw residence.

At the conclusion of the trip, Mr. Moran would say whether he would return to his home or whether he would remain in the South.

ROGERS OPENS SHAW SAFE DEPOSIT BOX

MYSTERIOUSLY HURRIES TO LATTER'S RESIDENCE AFTER INVESTIGATION.

Profound mystery veils the movements of Henry M. Rogers, receiver for John Shaw, subsequent to the opening of Mr. Rogers' safe at Shaw's residence. The safe was opened at the Union State Department building, and the contents of the safe were found to be a large sum of money, a large number of bonds, and a large number of other valuables.

The receiver's movements must surely be watched, and the fact that he has been seen at the Shaw residence is a very interesting one.

FACE DEATH UNDER WHEELS OF LOCOMOTIVE

One woman is in a dangerous condition, suffering from three broken ribs and internal injuries, while three other women and two children, all relatives, are nursing convalescent and body broken, and thank for their lucky stars today that they escaped so miraculously from death last night, when a shunting engine on the Midland division crashed into two closed carriages in which they were riding at the Hyde Park depot, and scattered them promiscuously along the railroad tracks, close to the wheels of the ponderous locomotive.

Mrs. Jennie Guerin of No. 21 Cottage street, New Haven, is the most seriously hurt, but today patients are said to have fair chance for recovery. The other two are Mrs. Henry D. Johnson of New Haven, Mrs. H. C. Wade and son of New Haven, and Mrs. J. R. Wade and son of New Haven. Mrs. H. C. Wade and son were in the first carriage, and Mrs. J. R. Wade and son were in the second carriage. Mrs. Guerin was in the third carriage. The accident occurred at the Hyde Park depot, where the train was stopped. The engine was shunting the train, and the carriages were crowded. The accident occurred at about 10 o'clock last night.

The two relatives were returned and released to kindling wood. The other two were taken to the hospital. The accident occurred at the Hyde Park depot, where the train was stopped. The engine was shunting the train, and the carriages were crowded. The accident occurred at about 10 o'clock last night.

MOTHER AND SON TO HAVE ONE FUNERAL

Parent Passed Away Upon Hearing News of Her Boy's Demise.

TO HOLD RITES TOMORROW

Mrs. Barbara M. Fitzgerald and her husband, Patrick J. Fitzgerald, Jr., are dead at their home, No. 221 Elm street, Cambridge, having learned their last almost simultaneously. The son passed away at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The mother, who had been growing weaker every moment, was told that her son had died, and a few minutes later she died. The funeral services are being held at the Hyde Park depot, where the train was stopped. The engine was shunting the train, and the carriages were crowded. The accident occurred at about 10 o'clock last night.

TOWNS TERRORIZED BY FLIGHT OF MADMAN

POLICE OF FIVE PLACES SCOUR WOODS FOR PATIENT WHO ESCAPED DANVERS.

Special to the Boston American. AMHERST, March 24.—Chief of Police Frye and a squad of officers, assisted by police from Newburyport, Haverhill, Tyngsboro, and Ipswich, are scouring the woods between this town and Newburyport, searching for William Sargent of Danvers, a dangerous inmate of the Danvers House asylum, who escaped from that institution last Friday. In course of the search flight through the woods, Sargent has spread terror among the townsfolk. Women in isolated farmhouses are afraid to be left alone. There is talk of not letting children go to school until the man is caught. Farmers are taking extra precautions, and every stranger is regarded with suspicion. Sargent, a demented man, is a native of Ireland. He was in the asylum for many years and was highly respected. His son was forty-three years old, was a native of Ireland, and was highly respected. BERKMAN HERE AS APOSTLE OF PEACE TO HUB

Anarchist Who Tried to Kill Frick Preaches New Gospel Against Violence.

AUDIENCE IS DISAPPOINTED

Alexander Berkman, the anarchist, would be slayer of William Frick, but reformer after fourteen years of prison life. The man who tried to kill the steel magnate and justified his deed by anarchist principles, has become an ardent advocate of peace. At least, that is what he tried to prove to his audience at No. 28 Charles street, where he sought and found temporary refuge after being driven from Phoenix Hall, No. 724 Washington street, last night.

According to Berkman there never was an anarchist, who even contemplated violence. He said that the only way to change the police power in taking the people into their hands was by the use of the ballot.

Anarchists Much Maligned. If there ever was a most maligned class of people, and Berkman, in his simple, direct manner, endeavored to show the audience that the part of the class was not as they were represented. THREE WOMEN IN ROYAL SUIT OF MYSTERY

Mrs. Alfonso XIII, English wife of Spanish claimant.

KING ALFONSO IS SEED BY HIS HALF-BROTHERS

Romance in Life of Alfonso's Father to Be Aired in the Spanish Courts.

MADRID, March 24.—King Alfonso XIII. is really the royal defendant in the case of a large suit in the private estate of his late father, Alfonso XII, which is being brought by his half-brothers, Alfonso and Fernando, sons of the dead king's mistress, Maria Christina, thirty years ago one of the greatest divas of her day.

Alfonso and Fernando claim to be the legitimate sons of their father, and for the purpose of the suit, the destruction of the original of which Maria Christina, the Queen mother, paid some $100,000, and a personal fee of $10,000, are the whole of the romantic suit which is now being fought in the Spanish courts.

Requested to Leave Spain. Maria Christina was a beautiful and gifted actress. Alfonso made her his mistress with and after his marriage to Maria Christina, settled upon her a life of luxury. She is now said to have been the most powerful woman in Spain, and it was she who caused the royal palace to take the decision to arrest a woman in the line of the purchase of the letters which were said to reveal a secret of the king's life.

After the death of the late monarch his half-brothers were registered to have their names changed to Alfonso and Fernando. Maria Christina, the Queen mother, was said to have been the most powerful woman in Spain, and it was she who caused the royal palace to take the decision to arrest a woman in the line of the purchase of the letters which were said to reveal a secret of the king's life.

Alfonso and Fernando claim to be the legitimate sons of their father, and for the purpose of the suit, the destruction of the original of which Maria Christina, the Queen mother, paid some $100,000, and a personal fee of $10,000, are the whole of the romantic suit which is now being fought in the Spanish courts.

FORMER MONK, PLOT VICTIM, FOUND SLAIN

Revenge as Crime Motive Shown in Shocking mutilation of Body.

NEW YORK, March 24.—Victim of a man, formerly a monk, was found slain in a room on the ground floor of the tenement building at No. 125 East Twenty-ninth street.

In plotting against others, Rosanna, the place of his own assassination, and even paid from his own purse the advance rent for the two rooms which proved to be his home of death, is the theory of the police.

Revenge of the nature that is not satisfied with the death of an enemy, but which desires the mutilation of the body after death, inspired the killing. The tip that, soon the words which came to the eyes that would never again see the secret doors that had no other purpose than to satisfy the thirst for blood.

When Rosanna came to this country, twenty years ago, an outcast monk, he began the practice of a sort of prayer before being sent to his country, where he could continue his power, at various times promised to those who would help him. His calling at times proved profitable. He was generally reported to be possessed of a considerable sum of money.

The source of the income of the ex-monk was at times in question, and although he had not been identified as having any connection with the secret societies, the police believe that he was the victim of a number of plots and ready to take a personal hand in carrying them out. It was reported in connection with one of these plots that he had been in contact with a man who was supposed to be a member of the same conspiracy as the unknown victim.

At that time, "You put that fellow Chance in the nick," said John J. Kelly, the ex-monk's lawyer, "and I'll be a lawyer for him." Kelly did in fact have the initial case, and he has been charged with the case of the "Coke" fire, but he has had his team to (see National) and he has had his team to (see National) and he has had his team to (see National).

FAMED BLIND WOMAN WRITERS 88

"Have Faith, Hope and Love," She Urges on Celebration of Her Anniversary.

HAS WRITTEN 5,000 SONGS

Her Boston American friend, Wm. BRIDGEMAN, of No. 21, "Have Faith, Hope and Love," she urged on the celebration of her anniversary.

Fanny Crosby lost her sight when a little child. She attended institutions for the education of the blind, and although she was never able to learn to read by touch because of blindness, she wrote a remarkable number of songs, and it is the thousands of poems and the New Testament version.

Early in life she achieved a great success in writing verse. Later on she wrote hymns for some of the greatest composers in the world. In all she wrote 5,000 songs, of which some 2,000 are now used over 200 names. She is regarded as the greatest of the blind writers of the world. At the age of eighty-eight, she is still hale and hearty.

Never quarrel with a customer. No matter if you feel sure you are right and the customer is wrong, do NOT GET IN AN ARGUMENT. Defer to the customer even if he is right and you are wrong.

Use tact if a misunderstanding arises. Be pleasant, and, if necessary, refer the affair to someone higher up to settle if it looks as if the difference of opinion is going to make unpleasantness.

By referring the matter to some one above you to adjust you will avoid useless discussion and hard feelings about something that you probably could never have settled unaided.

For instance: A customer purchased a fancy lace collar. In a day or two she returned to the counter with it, claiming the clerk had said it was a size larger. The clerk insisted this was an error, as that was the only size that particular style came in—as the fancy lace neckpieces do not run in a line of sizes like linen collars.

The clerk was right, but was wrong in starting an argument. The customer became rather disagreeable and lost her temper. She was on the point of going to the office to get her money back and perhaps report the clerk when another clerk suggested she see the manager.

He promptly took her back to the counter and a lace collar was quickly found that suited her even better than the original one.

IT DOES NOT PAY TO GET EXCITED OVER TRIFLES.

House Gowns and Two-Piece Dresses at Less Than Cost of Materials

These stylish garments cannot be excelled either in quality, workmanship or lowness of price. With these three factors in mind we have produced a line of house garments and two-piece dresses at a cost lower than you could buy the materials.

Should a dressmaker put these together, it would be at an extra cost of not less than $2.00 for the making of a two-piece suit which we sell completed at $1.95. And more important still is the fact that the fit and style, by no chance, could equal our product, made as it is by the most advanced manufacturing conditions and methods of the day, reinforced by the exclusive service of high salaried designers and dressmakers of a grade entirely beyond the capabilities of the average small dressmaker.
